

An afternoon in Honour of St. George & William Shakespeare

NO HEROES ANY MORE?

Have we lost the concept of heroism in a sceptical age?

Do the best of us lack all conviction?
Are the worst full of passionate intensity?
Is patriotism dead in the water?

Explore these challenging ideas in a musical and poetic collage, including a new version of The Myth of St. George, the words of Shakespeare in the original and an irreverent parody.

Freshly baked poems & some as old as Albion.

Riotous music from British composers, ancient and modern.

Performers from all parts of these islands, including one from Mauritius and the depths of Yorkshire, guided and misguided by a notable poet and obituary writer

Sunday 23rd April 3pm-5pm

In the HUB at the

Sheringham Little Theatre
